Ike Winds Up Tour Of Dixie

Roaring Salute Given GOPster In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 27.—(P)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower wound up with a roaring salute from Dixie here Friday night as campaign trip his managers pronounced "perfect."

The Republican presidential nominee has three days off to write speeches and get what rest he can before flying to Columbia, S. C., to renew his forays into the Democratic South before embarking on a long train trip West.

Eisenhower left for his New York headquarters with the cheers from 20,000 Virginians of "I Like Ike" ringing in his ears.

On the Virginia statehouse lawn in Richmond, they howled their approval when he asserted that Sen. Harry F. Byrd more nearly represents their opinion than the Truman Fair Deal and added: "Nobody owns you."

Eisenhower chose Petersburg, scene of a Civil War battle, to praise the record of Byrd, unofficial head of the state Democratic organization, who has not said whom he is supporting in the presidential race.

THE REPUBLICAN nominee, noting that he was being sponsored by the Democrats for Eisenhower, said that "any party that can produce a man like Harry F. Byrd seems to me to be a top-flight sort of outfit."

Eisenhower said he disagrees with President Truman that there are "too many Byrds in Congress."

He said Byrd believes "in integrity in government, in thrift, in economy—he believes in the virtues that have made America great. Why should I, because he has another political label, feel anything except the greatest admiration and respect for him?"

The Republican nominee told the Richmond crowd that the Truman Fair Deal had "abandoned Jeffersonian principles."

"I am quite sure that if Jefferson were alive today he would gladly and necessarily vote against the New Deal—the Fair Deal—in the next election," he declared as the crowd whooped its approval.

The general said that "the big city bosses, the heirs of the Kelly-Nash machine, the Hague machine and the Pendergast machine" are "corrupting" the Democratic Party.

Asserting that the Democrats think they have the South "in their pockets," Eisenhower added:

"They thought they had such a heavy mortgage on everybody living in the great Southland they thought they could ignore you and that no leader of the opposite party would ever be foolish enough to come down to this region. But I am down here because of my conviction that nobody owns you."

Truman Set For 15-Day National Tour

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(P)—President Truman is to set out Saturday on an 8,500-mile, 15-day campaign trip in which he will try to convince voters it would be "dangerous" to put the Republicans into power.

It is his first strictly political major whistle stop tour of the 1952 presidential campaign.

Truman will argue that "isolationists" dominate Republican policy and a GOP victory would endanger hopes for world peace.

Of the general issue of government corruption charges, plus the Nixon and Stevenson campaign fund furor, Truman will remind trainside crowds that he urged legislation requiring all high-paid federal officials and members of Congress to make public their outside income and its sources.

He also will recall Congress' failure to approve reorganization plans that would have extended civil service to virtually all federal departments.

The President leaves Washington at 10:30 p. m., EST, on a trip to cover 24 states.

His daughter Margaret, always a favorite of campaign crowds, will go along. The President's first stop will be in Pittsburgh, but he will make no speech because of his longstanding rule not to make political addresses on Sunday.

The following day Truman moves through Ohio and Indiana. About half a dozen stops are planned along the way.

HAPPILY REVISITING his old home town, Charles Chaplin shows the sights of London to his American wife, Oona, from the roof of their hotel overlooking the Thames River. The film comedian has been welcomed as a returning hero by the British press. This is Chaplin's first visit to England in more than two decades.

Kored Officer Says Russian Troops Seen In North Korea

SEOUL, Sept. 27.—(P)—A surrendered North Korean security officer told here Saturday of seeing Russian troops at an airfield in North Korea.

Lee Dong Yup said he saw about 20 Russians dressed in Chinese Communist uniforms at Sinuiju Airfield in June, 1951. He said he understood they installed anti-aircraft guns at the Red airfield, but that he did not know whether they remained to fire them.

The lieutenant was Communist security officer at the Panmunjom Sept. 1, 1952.

He related also that he had heard of a Soviet pilot flying Communist jets in June, 1951, and of two last spring.

The 29-year-old North Korean spoke to Allied correspondents through an interpreter at U. S. Eighth Army headquarters. He calmly answered questions during a 90-minute session.

THE NORTH Korean officer said he had heard Russian advisers are attached to the North Korean army officers school and were sent to various government ministries in North Korea after the outbreak of the war.

Eighth Army officers did not say whether they believed the officer.

The Communists have consistently maintained that only the Chinese people's "volunteers" and North Korean troops are fighting in Korea except for a small Hungarian medical unit.

Polio Hits All But Four Counties

COLUMBUS, Sept. 27.—(P)—Polio has struck in 84 of Ohio's 88 counties, Dr. John D. Porterfield, state health director reports.

He said that 2,196 cases have been reported so far this year. The previous high for an entire year was 1,833 in 1950.

Counties where no cases have been reported are Morgan, Jackson, Vinton and Adams.

Porterfield said there's no sign the new case rate is leveling off.

County - by - county breakdown showing the number of cases for the year to date and the number of cases reported since Sept. 20 includes the following:

Clinton 7-0, Fayette 3-0, Hocking 4-0, Pickaway 4-0, Van Wert 27-1.

Mother To Get Pair Of Medals

LIMA, Sept. 27.—(P)—The mother of two Marines from Lima who were killed in action in Korea will receive a pair of Purple Heart medals Sunday.

Bodies of the brothers, S-Sgt. Robert J. Fisher, 25, and Cpl. John T. Fisher, 19, arrived here Friday.

Adlai Promising 'Bare-Bone' Plan

Demo Candidate Says Spending Must Be Done With Tight Fists

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 27.—(P)—Adlai E. Stevenson invaded Kentucky Saturday after rounding out an Indiana campaign with a promise of "bare bone economy" in government.

The Democratic presidential nominee also teed off in:

1. Republican Sen. William E. Jenner of Indiana as "a man who slanders one of our greatest patriots and deprecates in ugly words the gallantry and sacrifice of Korea and the fight for freedom and peace." Jenner has called Gen. George C. Marshall a "front man for traitors."

2. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as an inexperienced hand who can't "move in and work miracles with a meat ax—or with mirrors" to cut federal spending.

3. GOP SEN. ROBERT A. Taft, who, Stevenson suggested, would write the labor laws and "conduct our foreign policy" in the event of a Republican victory in November.

The Illinois governor lit into Taft by name in an informal talk Friday afternoon in Evansville, Ind. He went after Republican presidential nominee Eisenhower and Jenner—but not by name—in a formal address Friday night to a full-house crowd of 12,000 in the Indianapolis Coliseum.

For the most part, the speech was given over to presenting a five-point program for economy in government. Stevenson sketched it in detail, then summed it up:

"First, get tight-fisted executives; second, give them the authority to run their organizations efficiently; third, scrutinize appropriation requests with a cold and penetrating eye;

Fourth, spend appropriation requests with a cold and penetrating eye; fifth, spend appropriations frugally; sixth, don't do in Washington what can be done in Indianapolis, and don't ask Uncle Sam to bridge Catbird Creek if you can help it."

But Stevenson cautioned: "Let no one deceive himself. Pinch every penny as best we can, our federal budget is still going to be large—much larger than we would like."

The reason, he said, is that 85 per cent of it goes for national security. No honest man can say how long heavy defense spending must continue, Stevenson said, but it is "likely to be for a long time to come."

TO SAY ANYTHING else, he declared, would be deceiving, and he "will leave deception to the Republican orators" he said "have been practicing it day and night."

The Indianapolis crowd gave Stevenson a big hand when he said his distinguished opponent, the general, has advanced the startling idea that "people should vote this fall for all Republican candidates, whatever their character and ability. He wants us to elect them all: good, bad and outrageous."

That was a clear allusion to Eisenhower's support of Jenner, who is running for reelection against Henry F. Schriker, now Indiana's governor. It was Schriker who put Stevenson's name in nomination at the Democratic National Convention last July 24.

Ability, Faults Overrated—HST

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(P)—President Truman says "my musical knowledge and ability have been greatly overrated as has some of my faults and foibles."

He made the comment before a luncheon meeting of the National Symphony Orchestra Association which presented a scroll to him expressing deep appreciation of his encouragement to music in Washington and referring to him as "the most musical President in the history of our country."

Millionaire Faces Ouster

Bootlegger-Gambler May Be Deported

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 27.—(P)—William (Big Bull) Lias, round millionaire sportsman who admittedly piled up a fortune running bootleg whiskey and in gambling, is free in $2,000 bail awaiting a hearing on illegal entry into the country. He faces deportation if found guilty.

The charge was the latest in a long series of tiffs the nearly 400-pound owner of Wheeling Downs Race Track has been in with Uncle Sam. The government is still trying to collect nearly $3 million he owes in back taxes.

Lias was arrested Friday in his home here by immigration officials for illegal entry into the country in 1935 without a passport following a European trip.

The government said Lias was a native of Greece and first came into the United States with his mother on Aug. 24, 1909, as an alien under the name of Vassiliou Liakos. But this is not mentioned in the charge. The Department of Immigration contends Lias was never naturalized.

THE 52-YEAR-OLD Lias, described by Sen. Williams (R-De.) as a dictator of rackets in West Virginia and Southern Ohio, currently is in the midst of an involved suit by the Internal Revenue Department. It contends he owes $2,850,000 in back income taxes, interest and penalties.

Wheeling Downs and several other Lias holdings have been thrown into receivership by the government until the claim is settled. Lias once offered to settle for $1.6 million but the government turned it down.

In another court fight, nearly four years ago, Lias' attorneys told the court Lias had made his money through illegal whiskey and gambling operations.

Philosopher Dies

ROME, Sept. 27.—(P)—George Santayana, philosopher and poet who ranked as one of the 20th century's greatest thinkers, died here Friday night. He was 88.

City Charter—Step By Step

One advantage of the charter is the short ballot, which places responsibility of business-like government on an elected council of seven members, and makes the elective jobs of sufficient importance to attract full public scrutiny.

The charter abolishes the present inefficient plan of government in which the responsibility of city government is placed on 12 elected officials, the mayor, the solicitor, the auditor, the treasurer, the president of council, three councilmen at large, and four councilmen from each of the four wards.

Under the charter, the council passes the necessary legislation, controls the expenditure of money, and employs a city manager who carries out the administrative details of government under a policy determined by the council.

The charter provides a safeguard against unwarranted interference with the city manager by providing that the council or any member of it may not interfere in matters of employment or give orders to subordinate in the government for which the city manager is responsible.

THE COUNCIL has a right to fix the city manager's salary, and to replace him by another manager if the public interest warrants it.

The council is charged with the responsibility of appointing the finance director, whose duties are a combination of the duties of the present auditor and treasurer, from a list of candidates submitted by the city manager, except that the present auditor will serve without appointment by the council until Dec. 31, 1955, when the auditor's term expires.

The council appoints a city attorney and elects one of its members as mayor, whose duties will be to preside over the council and to be the official head of the city for all ceremonial purposes.

The council is charged with the responsibility of filling vacancies in the Berger Hospital board, and in the city planning commission.

A COUPLE OF WORKERS, Fran Watts (left), and Eleanor Rosseau, wade through mountains of mail at GOP campaign headquarters in Washington. The deluge of letters arrived after Sen. Richard Nixon's TV-radio speech on the controversial fund issue. A spokesman said the mail reflected the same overwhelming approval of Nixon as had earlier wires.

World's Best Seller Revised, Gets Million Advance Orders

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—This is the story of a book that has broken all records in publishing history and inspired the most extensive religious celebration of the century by millions of members of Protestant churches.

The book is a Bible in the language of today. It is the Revised Standard Version of the Bible which will be presented to Christian people in great religious services in hundreds of cities and towns throughout the United States Tuesday.

Although scheduled to go on sale Tuesday, coincident with a nationwide celebration embracing more than 3,200 Bible observances, the revision of the King James Bible has surpassed all best sellers. Advance orders from booksellers approach nearly one million copies—a first edition record never even remotely approached by any other book in American publishing history.

The first copy—a special hand-bound copy in Morocco leather—was presented to the President of the United States by Christian leaders at the White House Friday. The presentation was made by President Truman by Dr. Luther A. Weigle, dean-emeritus of Yale Divinity School.

FOR DEAN WEIGLE, chairman of the Standard Bible Committee and Dr. Roy G. Ross, associate secretary of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A., the ceremony marked the fruition of 15 years work together.

At the time the work was begun, Dr. Ross was general secretary of the International Council of Religious Education, now a part of the National Council of the Churches of Christ, the copyright owners.

The ICRE and its 40 denominations established the Standard Bible Committee and enlisted 32 Bible scholars to embark upon the fifth authorized revision of the Bible, in English.

In making the presentation Dean Weigle, himself one of America's outstanding Bible scholars, explained what the scholars had attempted to achieve.

"The revisers have sought to recover the original Hebrew and Greek text of the Scriptures, to recover the meaning where that has been lost or obscured, and to use the new resources of understanding the Biblical languages and the history and cultures of Bible lands which the discoveries of archaeology have made available in the past 75 years."

The National Capital Bible observance Monday night will open the nationwide celebration of the part the Bible has played in the life of the American people and the nation.

NATIONAL LEADERS of church and government and the ambassadors of many foreign countries will join with 10,000 pastors and lay people of Washington churches, in a great religious service that will emphasize the central place of the Bible in every spiritual movement of the Christian church and especially in the historic life of Protestantism.

This outpouring of Christians in the nation's capital will be repeated in hundreds of cities and towns Tuesday evening. At 8 o'clock member of virtually all the Protestant churches in the United States and Canada will participate in Bible observances that will be one of the highlights of Christian Education Week.

The week-long observance will reach a climax the following Sunday when Worldwide Communion will draw millions of Christians to their churches.

2 Hurricanes Are Watched In Atlantic

MIAMI, Sept. 27.—(P)—Weather observers watched two hurricanes Saturday, one sweeping northeastward in the Atlantic well off the Carolina coast and another developing about 1,700 miles southeast of Miami.

Hurricane "Charlie," third of the season, was kicking up a much faster pace and moving in a northeasterly direction at 25 miles per hour. Indications were it would continue to move in that general direction for the next 12 hours. Friday night its speed was 14-16 miles per hour.

Highest winds were about 125 miles per hour near the center, with hurricane force winds — 75 miles per hour—extending outward 80-100 miles north and east.

The fourth storm, designated "Dog" by the Miami Weather Bureau, was reported Friday night by the San Juan, Puerto Rico, weather bureau to be about 450 miles east of Antigua, British West Indies.

It was moving west northwest about 10 miles per hour and highest winds over a small area near the center were estimated at 75 miles an hour.

Game Protector Killer Arraigned

PORTSMOUTH, Sept. 27.—(P)—Common Pleas Judge Vernon Smith Friday set $25,000 bond for Julius Henderson, 43, accused of killing a game protector who sought to arrest him.

Henderson's case will go before the Scioto County grand jury Monday. Henderson is accused in the fatal shooting of Peter Andre, 52, who tried to arrest him on a charge of violating game regulations.

Stevenson List Gives Names, Explanations

'If It's Crime To Help Good People, Then I'm Guilty,' He Reports

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—(P)—The names of contributors and recipients of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson's special expense fund were listed in a statement given reporters Saturday by the Illinois governor.

The names, however, were not to be made public until Saturday night. At the same time, the governor issued a statement to the reporters in connection with the fund which he promoted to supplement Illinois state salaries. The statement also was not to be made public until Saturday night.

Three state officials appointed by the Illinois governor already have disclosed they were beneficiaries of the expense fund.

Several other state department heads have denied receiving extra compensation from the salary-supplementing fund which Stevenson acknowledged several days ago. He defended the setup and said there was nothing secretive or improper about it.

However, continued political charges stemming from the fund appeared to have prompted the Democratic presidential candidate to announce he would disclose the names of those who contributed and benefited.

EARLIER HE had declined to name the donors, saying that such a disclosure would amount to a "breach of faith." The gifts, he said, were given to supplement incomes of persons he had induced to leave private employment to take state positions at lower salaries.

Speaking in Indianapolis Friday night, Stevenson referred to the fund and said: "I don't have much chance to read the newspapers these days, but I understand there is a lot of curiosity about some help I gave to some good people in Illinois."

"I hope my reputation isn't involved, because if it's a crime to help some good people in the government of Illinois, then I'm guilty."

Chicago newspapers have continued to publish new reports on the fund. The Chicago Daily News said it polled 15 persons it described as "present and former state bigwigs" and said they denied receiving any extra pay from the special fund.

The Chicago Tribune said that eight of the 10 members of Stevenson's state cabinet of department directors denied they got extra compensation or gifts. The directors are each paid $10,000 a year.

THE TRIBUNE said one director complained good naturedly that he was left out. The newspaper quoted C. Hobart Engle, director of registration: "Damn it, I was left out. I didn't get one red cent. I'm a poor man."

J. Edward Day state director of insurance, said Friday he received a "Christmas gift" from Stevenson. But he declined to say when and how much. Day, former administrative aide to Stevenson, declined to discuss the gift "in view of the fact that the governor plans to make a further statement on the fund."

Earlier, Fred Hoehler, state welfare director, and Walter Schaefer, a justice of the Illinois supreme court, said they had received Christmas gifts.

Town Drunks Sip Wine In Jail, Too

LORAIN, Sept. 27.—(P)—Their many jail terms for drunkenness just can't keep up with the thirsts of Freddie O'Keefe and Leo Siatkowski.

Municipal Judge Leroy Kelly gave them another two weeks in jail Friday, this time for getting drunk while serving a similar sentence. O'Keefe, who is 54, has been jailed 228 times for intoxication. Siatkowski, a younger man by two years, has been in jail 101 times on the same charge. Their latest offense occurred when a patrolman found them happily swigging wine in the jail basement.

Ike Winds Up Tour Of Dixie

Roaring Salute Given GOPster In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 27.—(P)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower wound up with a roaring salute from Dixie here Friday night a campaign trip his managers pronounced "perfect."

The Republican presidential nominee has three days off to write speeches and get what rest he can before flying to Columbia, S. C., to renew his forays into the Democratic South before embarking on a long train trip West.

Eisenhower left for his New York headquarters with the cheers from 20,000 Virginians of "I Like Ike" ringing in his ears.

On the Virginia statehouse lawn in Richmond, they howled their approval when he asserted that Sen. Harry F. Byrd more nearly represents their opinion than the Truman Fair Deal and added: "Nobody owns you."

Eisenhower chose Petersburg, scene of a Civil War battle, to praise the record of Byrd, unofficial head of the state Democratic organization, who has not said whom he is supporting in the presidential race.

THE REPUBLICAN nominee, noting that he was being sponsored by the Democrats for Eisenhower, said that "any party that can produce a man like Harry F. Byrd seems to me to be a top-flight sort of outfit."

Eisenhower said he disagrees with President Truman that there are "too many Byrds in Congress."

He said Byrd believes "in integrity in government, in thrift, in economy—he believes in the virtues that have made America great. Why should I, because he has another political label, feel anything except the greatest admiration and respect for him?"

The Republican nominee told the Richmond crowd that the Truman Fair Deal has "abandoned Jeffersonian principles."

"I am quite sure that if Jefferson were alive today he would gladly and necessarily vote against the New Deal—the Fair Deal—in the next election," he declared as the crowd whooped its approval.

The general said that "the big city bosses, the heirs of the Kelly-Nash machine, the Hague machine and the Pendergast machine" are "corrupting" the Democratic Party.

Truman Set For 15-Day National Tour

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(P)—President Truman is to set out Saturday on an 8,500-mile, 15-day campaign trip in which he will try to convince voters it would be "dangerous" to put the Republicans into power.

It is his first strictly-political major whistle stop tour of the 1952 presidential campaign.

Truman will argue that "isolationists" dominate Republican policy and a GOP victory would endanger hopes for world peace.

Of the general issue of government corruption charges, plus the Nixon and Stevenson campaign fund furor, Truman will remind trainside crowds that he urged legislation requiring all higher-paid federal officials and members of Congress to make public their outside income and its sources.

He also will recall Congress' failure to approve reorganization plans that would have extended civil service to virtually all federal departments.

The President leaves Washington at 10:30 p. m., EST, on a trip to cover 24 states.

His daughter Margaret, always a favorite of campaign crowds, will go along. The President's first stop will be in Pittsburgh, but he will make no speech because of his longstanding rule not to make political addresses on Sunday.

The following day Truman moves through Ohio and Indiana. About half a dozen stops are planned along the way.

HAPPILY REVISITING his old home town, Charles Chaplin shows the sights of London to his American wife, Oona, from the roof of their hotel overlooking the Thames River. The film comedian has been welcomed as a returning hero by the British press. This is Chaplin's first visit to England in more than two decades.

Adlai Promising 'Bare-Bone' Plan

Demo Candidate Says Spending Must Be Done With Tight Fists

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 27.—(P)—Adlai E. Stevenson invaded Kentucky Saturday after rounding out an Indiana campaign with a promise of "bare bone economy" in government.

The Democratic presidential nominee also teed off in:

1. Republican Sen. William E. Jenner of Indiana as "a man who slanders one of our greatest patriots and deprecates in ugly words the gallantry and sacrifice of Korea and the fight for freedom and peace." Jenner has called Gen. George C. Marshall a "front man for traitors."

2. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as an inexperienced hand who can't "move in and work miracles with

But Stevenson cautioned: "Let no one deceive himself. Pinch every penny as best we can, our federal budget is still going to be large—much larger than we would like."

The reason, he said, is that 85 per cent of it goes for national security. No honest man can say how long heavy defense spending must continue, Stevenson said, but it is "likely to be for a long time to come."

The Indianapolis crowd gave Stevenson a big hand when he said his distinguished opponent, the general, has advanced the startling idea that "people should vote this fall for all Republican candidates, whatever their character and ability. He wants us to elect them all: good, bad and outrageous."

That was a clear allusion to Eisenhower's support of Jenner, who is running for reelection against Henry F. Schriker, now Indiana's governor. It was Schriker who put Stevenson's name in nomination at the Democratic National Convention last July 24.

2 Hurricanes Are Watched In Atlantic

MIAMI, Sept. 27.—(P)—Weather observers watched two hurricanes Saturday, one sweeping northeastward in the Atlantic well off the Carolina coast and another developing about 1,700 miles southeast of Miami.

Hurricane "Charlie," third of the season, was kicking up a much faster pace and moving in a northeasterly direction at 25 miles per hour. Indications were it would continue to move in that general direction for the next 12 hours. Friday night its speed was 14-16 miles per hour.

Highest winds were about 125 miles per hour near the center, with hurricane force winds — 75 miles per hour—extending outward 80-100 miles north and east.

The fourth storm, designated "Dog" by the Miami Weather Bureau, was reported Friday night by the San Juan, Puerto Rico, weather bureau to be about 450 miles east of Antigua, British West Indies.

It was moving west northwest about 10 miles per hour and highest winds over a small area near the center were estimated at 75 miles an hour.

Game Protector Killer Arraigned

PORTSMOUTH, Sept. 27.—(P)—Common Pleas Judge Vernon Smith Friday set $25,000 bond for Julius Henderson, 43, accused of killing a game protector who sought to arrest him.

Henderson's case will go before the Scioto County grand jury Monday. Henderson is accused in the fatal shooting of Peter Andre, 52, who tried to arrest him on a charge of violating game regulations.

The Reds broke off the fight at dawn.

Stevenson List Gives Names, Explanations

'If It's Crime To Help Good People, Then I'm Guilty,' He Reports

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—(P)—The names of contributors and recipients of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson's special expense fund were listed in a statement given reporters Saturday by the Illinois governor.

The names, however, were not to be made public until Saturday night. At the same time, the governor issued a statement to the reporters in connection with the fund which he promoted to supplement Illinois state salaries. The statement also was not to be made public until Saturday night.

Three state officials appointed by the Illinois governor already have disclosed they were beneficiaries of the expense fund.

Several other state department heads have denied receiving extra compensation from the salary-supplementing fund which Stevenson acknowledged several days ago. He defended the setup and said there was nothing secretive or improper about it.

However, continued political charges stemming from the fund appeared to have prompted the Democratic presidential candidate to announce he would disclose the names of those who contributed and benefited.

EARLIER HE had declined to name the donors, saying that such a disclosure would amount to a "breach of faith." The gifts, he said, were given to supplement incomes of persons he had induced to leave private employment to take state positions at lower salaries.

Speaking in Indianapolis Friday night, Stevenson referred to the fund and said: "I do not have much chance to read the newspapers these days, but I understand there is a lot of curiosity about some help I gave to some good people in Illinois."

"I hope my reputation isn't involved, because if it's a crime to help some good people in the government of Illinois, then I'm guilty."

Chicago newspapers have continued to publish new reports on the fund. The Chicago Daily News said it polled 15 persons it described as "present and former state bigwigs" and said they denied receiving any extra pay from the special fund.

The Chicago Tribune said that eight of the 10 members of Stevenson's state cabinet of department directors denied they got extra compensation or gifts. The directors are each paid $10,000 a year.

THE TRIBUNE said one director complained good naturedly that he was left out. The newspaper quoted C. Hobart Engle, director of registration: "Damn it, I was left out. I didn't get one red cent. I'm a poor man."

J. Edward Day state director of insurance, said Friday he received a "Christmas gift" from Stevenson. But he declined to say when and how much. Day, former administrative aide to Stevenson, declined to discuss the gift "in view of the fact that the governor plans to make a further statement on the fund."

Earlier, Fred Hoehler, state welfare director, and Walter Schaefer, a justice of the Illinois supreme court, said they had received Christmas gifts.

Town Drunks Sip Wine In Jail, Too

LORAIN, Sept. 27.—(P)—Their many jail terms for drunkenness just can't keep up with the thirsts of Freddie O'Keefe and Leo Siatkowski.

Municipal Judge Leroy Kelly gave them another two weeks in jail Friday, this time for getting drunk while serving a similar sentence. O'Keefe, who is 54, has been jailed 228 times for intoxication. Siatkowski, a younger man by two years, has been in jail 101 times on the same charge. Their latest offense occurred when a patrolman found them happily swigging wine in the jail basement.

New Standard Revised Version Of Bible Background Detailed

(EDITOR'S NOTE: following is an article written especially for The Circleville Herald by the Rev. Robert Weaver, pastor of First Methodist church, concerning the new revised standard version of the Bible.)

Tuesday, Sept. 30, is a day of great importance to the Protestant church. It will mark the day when the Revised Standard Version of the Bible will be made available to the public.

That evening will be an historic occasion. About 30,000 simultaneous interdenominational religious gatherings across the continent will honor the new version and the men who have worked so patiently since 1929 to make the version possible.

Above all, however, there will be observances to dedicate Protestant Christians to a renewed study of the Bible and its message.

The Bible is the record of divine revelation. It carries its full message not to those who regard it simply as a heritage of the past or praise its literary style, but to those who read it so that they may understand God's word to men.

With the passing centuries, errors and inaccuracies have become evident in our most widely used English translation—The King James Bible. Many such faults were corrected in the English Revised Version of 1881 and the American Standard Version of 1901; but these revisions sacrificed much of the beauty and the power of the King James version.

Out of the need for an English translation which would combine accuracy, simplicity, directness and spiritual power—a Bible translated in the light of many remarkable archaeological discoveries of the late 19th and 20th century—the Revised Standard Version of the Bible was conceived.

The English Bible is a translation. The original Bible spoke in Hebrew as Moses spoke to people in his day. Paul spoke in everyday Greek. Jerome replaced Old Latin translations with the Latin Vulgate at the start of the fifth century.

John Wycliffe was the first to translate the Bible into English. Born in 1320, he became an Oxford scholar, translated the Bible from the Latin into the 14th Century Middle English.

Because his translation was quoted and talked about, it met with conflict by the Church of Rome. Although Wycliffe died before he would have been killed at the stake, his bones were dug up and thrown into the river to destroy his memory.

William Tyndale, who was born one hundred years after the death of Wycliffe, looked to the Bible as his authority and standard and determined that every person should have access to the Bible.

Although burned at the stake by representatives of the Church at Rome, the work of Tyndale was the major basis of the King James version which came along in 1611 after King James employed a group of scholars to produce a translation that would be the best of all that had been brought forth to that time.

In 1929, the International Council of Religious Education authorized a committee of fifteen scholars to set to work. This committee was composed of leading scholars of the Protestant church with Dr. Luther A. Weigle, Dean Emeritus of the Yale Divinity School, as chairman. They worked in two sections, one dealing with the Old Testament and the other with the New Testament. All changes were subject to the entire committee. A preliminary draft was made by an individual member; each verse then subject to the entire committee.

The Revised Standard Version of the New Testament appeared on February 11, 1946, in a memorable ceremony in Columbus. The completed Bible will appear Tuesday with the 30,000 interdenominational celebrations throughout the land. Circleville ministers will give recognition to the new Bible in morning worship services this Sunday.

"Sometimes in the farmer's bins his seed will get mixed up and when he sows it there will be a mixed or combination crop. Today when our human opinions get mixed up with the pure seed of the kingdom we may have a combination individual. Jesus said, 'every plant which my heavenly father hath not planted shall be rooted up' (Matt. 15:13). The pure, unmixed seed of the kingdom will be the only one that will stand the test."

"Jesus said, 'the seed of the kingdom' is the word of God' (Luke 8:11). When that seed, the word of God, is planted in good and honest hearts today it will produce what it did in the days of the apostles. The fruit it produced then was simply Christians (Acts 11:26; 26:28). It is the only seed that will produce Christians today. We must have the seed before we can have the crop."

"The following is a scriptural text of special significance to me. LUKE 9:23: 'If any man will come after Me, let him take up his cross daily and follow Me.' Some time ago, I had the opportunity to visit the Tower of London. I was particularly impressed by a single, meaningful sentence carved by a prisoner on the wall of a cell over three hundred years ago. It read: 'It is not adversity that kills, but the impatience with which we bear adversity.'"

In merely rebelling against trouble or affliction we often do little more than make a bad situation worse.

It is much more sensible to do something to correct an evil insofar as you can and take the rest with patience.

Christ, Who gladly suffered so much for each of us, expects you and me to be cheerful in meeting adversity.

Fr. James Keller, Director, The Christophers (Roman Catholic)

In the service of worship, the Rev. Donald Mitchell will speak upon "The Word of Life in Living Language," using the statement of Peter in John 6:68, "Lord, to whom shall we go? You have the words of eternal life; and we have believed, and have come to know, that you are the Holy One of God."

The choir will lead the congregation in singing the hymns, "How Firm a Foundation," "The Heavens Declare Thy Glory," and "Break Thou the Bread of Life."

The choir will be directed by Mrs. Clark Will in singing an anthem entitled "Come Ye Blessed."

In the afternoon, Westminster Fellowship youth group will meet at 2 p. m. in the social rooms of the church.

Worship Service Announced For 1st EUB Church

First Evangelical United Brethren church Sunday conducts unified worship service from 9:30 a. m. until 11 a. m. with the Rev. Carl L. Wilson and Edwin Richardson directing the service.

Worship will begin with Miss Lucille Kirkwood playing the prelude, "Alegretto," after which the church choir will sing a processional hymn, "The Church's One Foundation."

Richardson will lead the congregation in the call to worship, invocation and reaffirmation of faith in praise, doctrine and prayer, followed by a congregational hymn, "Take Time to Be Holy."

A prayer of thanks giving for Christian stewardship privileges will be given by the pastor.

"First Things First" is the sermon topic from St. Matthew 6:33. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all other things shall be added unto you."

Of this thought the Rev. Mr. Wilson says, "With the creation of man God set the pattern for all life that humankind should seek the Kingdom of God. Man had all that was necessary for righteous living in God's original plan but fickle man was not satisfied with the Divine way. Since the fall of man God has continually prompted people to return to righteousness. Throughout the Old Testament God constantly urged man to give first consideration to His way. With the coming of Jesus another avenue was open for the fulfillment of Divine purpose."

"The text was spoken by Jesus as part of the Sermon on the Mount. The Son of God is counseling people that they travel a byroad when they seek other things in preference to God. With so much unsteadiness and chaos in our day, the cause is easily found in people seeking everything else first. Man is a seeking soul but often fails in the quest of life because he seeks the secular rather than the spiritual."

"The challenge of the hour is to seek the Lord while He may be found, to call upon Him while He is near; Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon."

Classes of the church school will study a lesson, "The Glory of Solomon's Empire." Classes are engaged in a series of attendance rallies with the children, youth and adult departments working for the larger percentage of enrollment present each Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Liston of Columbus were Thursday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Graham.

Mrs. Ernest Deyo of Huntington W. Va. spent part of last week with Mrs. Emma Deyo and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nance. Other guests during the weekend were Ralph Nance and family, and Robert Deyo and family of Columbus, and Grace Dorothy and Chester Minshall.

Troy McPherson and family took a trip Sunday through southern Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bauhan had as Sunday guests, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bauhan, Miss Pearl Deyo, and Mr. and Mrs. John Tracy. The dinner was in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Emil Bauhan.

which he will bring is entitled "The Living Word of God."

In it he will give some of the history of the development of our Bible as we have it today and point out the helpfulness of the new tool which is now ours in the new revised standard version.

The prelude, offertory and accompaniment to the singing of the congregation will be played by Miss Minnie Wilkerson. Clark Zwyer, assistant superintendent of the Sunday school, will direct in the morning devotions.

"The Glory of Solomon's Empire" is the lesson which will be studied in the church school. All of the assistant officers and teachers will be in charge.

Rally Day Rite Due Sunday In Methodist Church

Sunday will be Rally Day in First Methodist church.

There will be a special program for all Sunday School classes above the primary department. Films concerned with Bible background and various revisions of the Bible will be presented.

It is hoped that this program will bring a better understanding of the need for the new Revised Standard Version of the Bible which is being published in its entirety on Tuesday.

In the worship service, the Rev. Robert B. Weaver will continue in his discussion of the American Revised Standard Version of the Bible—a series which was begun in last Sunday's message.

The Rev. Mr. Weaver says: "Through the ages God's word has been brought to men in the language of their times. Moses spoke in Hebrew; Paul spoke in Greek; Jerome spoke in Latin; John Wycliffe and William Tyndall spoke in "middle" English; and the scholars of King James spoke in the Elizabethan English; therefore, there is a need for the Twentieth Century translation which will combine the accuracy, simplicity and inspirational power of the King James Version—but will be direct, clear, and meaningful to all people of today."

Also, during the morning service, there will be a dedication of altar appointments. The altar was presented in memory of Will Hamilton; the pulpit in memory of George Pontius; the lectern in memory of Mrs. Cyrus Abernathy; the cross and candlesticks in memory of George Schaub; and matching flower vases in memory of Mrs. Jennie Mowery.

In concluding the morning worship service, members of both the Junior High and the Senior High Methodist Youth Fellowships will have their annual youth fund pledge service. All members of the two fellowships will sit as a group for the morning worship service and all of their parents will be present for this service.

Special organ music by Mrs. Ervin Leist will be "Agnus Dei," "Unfinished Symphony," and "Heroic Ode."

Senior choir, under the direction of Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, will sing an anthem, "Almighty God, Unto Whom All Hearts Be Open." Solo in the anthem will be sung by Mrs. Larry Graham, soprano.

Hosts for the morning worship service will be Mr. and Mrs. John Evans and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Brown.

The Glory of Solomon's Empire

Solomon's kingdom extended from the river Euphrates to the borders of Egypt. Judah and Israel, who were as many as the sands of the sea in multitude, ate, drank, and were merry.

Hearing of Solomon's wisdom and splendor, the Queen of Sheba came to him, asking questions. She went away telling him that all she had heard of him was true and more.

All the known world heard of Solomon's renown and sought him, bringing to him gifts—vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and garments, and armor, and spices, horses and mules.

Solomon had many wives, who tempted him to worship idols. Angered, Jehovah decreed that after his death, part of the kingdom would be taken away.

lish translation—The King James Bible. Many such faults were corrected in the English Revised Version of 1881 and the American Standard Version of 1901; but these revisions sacrificed much of the beauty and the power of the King James version.

Out of the need for an English translation which would combine accuracy, simplicity, directness and spiritual power—a Bible translated in the light of many remarkable archaeological discoveries of the late 19th and 20th century—the Revised Standard Version of the Bible was conceived.

The English Bible is a translation. The original Bible spoke in Hebrew as Moses spoke to people in his day. Paul spoke in everyday Greek. Jerome replaced Old Latin translations with the Latin Vulgate at the start of the fifth century.

John Wycliffe was the first to translate the Bible into English. Born in 1320, he became an Oxford scholar, translated the Bible from the Latin into the 14th century Middle English.

Because his translation was quoted and talked about, it met with conflict by the Church of Rome. Although Wycliffe died before he would have been killed at the stake, his bones were dug up and thrown into the river to destroy his memory.

William Tyndale, who was born one hundred years after the death of Wycliffe, looked to the Bible as his authority and standard and determined that every person should have access to the Bible.

Although burned at the stake by representatives of the Church at Rome, the work of Tyndale was the major basis of the King James version which came along in 1611 after King James employed a group of scholars to produce a translation that would be the best of all that had been brought forth to that time.

In 1929, the International Council of Religious Education authorized a committee of fifteen scholars to set to work. This committee was composed of leading scholars of the Protestant church with Dr. Luther A. Weigle, Dean Emeritus of the Yale Divinity School, as chairman. They worked in two sections, one dealing with the Old Testament and the other with the New Testament. All changes were subject to the entire committee. A preliminary draft was made by an individual member; each verse then subject to the entire committee.

The Revised Standard Version of the New Testament appeared on February 11, 1946, in a memorable ceremony in Columbus. The completed Bible will appear Tuesday with the 30,000 interdenominational celebrations throughout the land.

Circleville ministers will give recognition to the new Bible in morning worship services this Sunday.

Pre-Communion Rite Planned For Lutherans

A pre-communion worship service this Sunday morning at 10:15 a. m. in Trinity Lutheran church will be conducted by the Rev. George L. Troutman. He will preach from Luke 15:11-32, concerning the prodigal son and his brother, on the theme "Except Ye Repent."

Worship Service Announced For 1st EUB Church

First Evangelical United Brethren church Sunday conducts unified worship service from 9:30 a. m. until 11 a. m. with the Rev. Carl L. Wilson and Edwin Richardson directing the service.

Worship will begin with Miss Lucille Kirkwood playing the prelude, "Alleluia," after which the church choir will sing a processional hymn, "The Church's One Foundation."

Richardson will lead the congregation in the call to worship, invocation and reaffirmation of faith in praise, doctrine and prayer, followed by a congregational hymn, "Take Time to Be Holy."

A prayer of thanks giving for Christian stewardship privileges will be given by the pastor.

"First Things First" is the sermon topic from St. Matthew 6:33. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all other things shall be added unto you."

Of this thought the Rev. Mr. Wilson says, "With the creation of man God set the pattern for all life that humankind should seek the Kingdom of God. Man had all that was necessary for righteous living in God's original plan but mankind was not satisfied with the Divine way. Since the fall of man God has continually prompted people to return to righteousness. Throughout the Old Testament God constantly urged man to give first consideration to His way. With the coming of Jesus another avenue was open for the fulfillment of Divine purpose."

"The text was spoken by Jesus as part of the Sermon on the Mount. The Son of God is counseling people that they travel a by-road when they seek other things in preference to God. With so much unsettledness and chaos in our day, the cause is easily found in people seeking everything else first. Man is a seeking soul but often fails in the quest of life because he seeks the secular rather than the spiritual."

"The challenge of the hour is to seek the Lord while He may be found, to call upon Him while He is near; Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon."

Classes of the church school will study a lesson, "The Glory of Solomon's Empire." Classes are engaged in a series of attendance rallies with the children, youth and adult departments working for the largest percentage of enrollment present each Sunday.

Revised Bible Is Theme For Presbyterians

General Rally Day will be observed at the Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church Sunday as well as special emphasis upon Christian education week and the publication of the new revised standard version of the Bible.

The Rally Day service will complete a month of rally in the church and is a day when the entire Sunday school is to be present.

Special goals for attendance have been set for each class and the entire school, and calling and other promotional materials have been used this week to increase attendance.

The Rev. James A. Herbst will give special emphasis to the publication of the new revised standard version of the Bible. The message

Rally Day Rite Due Sunday In Methodist Church

Sunday will be Rally Day in First Methodist church.

There will be a special program for all Sunday School classes above the primary department. Films concerned with Bible background and various revisions of the Bible will be presented.

It is hoped that this program will bring a better understanding of the need for the new Revised Standard Version of the Bible which is being published in its entirety on Tuesday.

In the worship service, the Rev. Robert B. Weaver will continue in his discussion of the American Revised Standard Version of the Bible—a series which was begun in last Sunday's message.

The Rev. Mr. Weaver says: "Through the ages God's word has been brought to men in the language of their times. Moses spoke in Hebrew; Paul spoke in Greek; Jerome spoke in Latin; John Wycliffe and William Tyndall spoke in 'middle' English; and the scholars of King James spoke in the Elizabethan English; therefore, there is a need for the Twentieth Century translation which will combine the accuracy, simplicity and inspirational power of the King James Version—but will be direct, clear, and meaningful to all people of today."

Also, during the morning service, there will be a dedication of altar appointments. The altar was presented in memory of Will Hamilton; the pulpit in memory of George Pontius; the lectern in memory of Mrs. Cyrus Abernathy; the cross and candlesticks in memory of George Schaub; and matching flower vases in memory of Mrs. Jennie Mowery.

In concluding the morning worship service, members of both the Junior High and the Senior High Methodist Youth Fellowships will have their annual youth fund pledge service. All members of the two fellowships will sit as a group for the morning worship service and all of their parents will be present for this service.

Special organ music by Mrs. Ervin Leist will be "Agnus Dei," "Unfinished Symphony," and "Heroic Ode."

Senior choir, under the direction of Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, will sing an anthem, "Almighty God, Unto Whom All Hearts Be Open." Solo in the anthem will be sung by Mrs. Larry Graham, soprano.

Hosts for the morning worship service will be Mr. and Mrs. John Evans and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Brown.

The Glory of Solomon's Empire

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—1 Kings 4:20-34; 7:1-8; 9:10-11:43.

Solomon's kingdom extended from the river Euphrates to the borders of Egypt. Judah and Israel, who were as many as the sands of the sea in multitude, ate, drank, and were merry.

Hearing of Solomon's wisdom and splendor, the Queen of Sheba came to him, asking questions. She went away telling him that all she had heard of him was true and more.

All the known world heard of Solomon's renown and sought him, bringing to him gifts—vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and garments, and armor, and spices, horses and mules.

Solomon had many wives, who tempted him to worship idols. Angered, Jehovah decreed that after his death, part of the kingdom would be taken away. MEMORY VERSE—Luke 12:15.

BRAZIL'S DILEMMA

REGARDLESS OF WHERE it is tried, when government enters business results can always be predicted in advance. England tried it with disastrous results. Now Brazil is caught in a financial situation which is causing considerable concern.

Brazil is one Latin American country which is a good friend of the United States. A third of that country's imports come from the United States, and this country buys more from Brazil than from any other nation south of the border.

Brazil is confronted by a debit on current accounts of nearly $500,000,000, which is more than the entire assets of its central bank and its reserves of gold and foreign exchange holdings. This dilemma has been brought about by the government's venture into private enterprise in the last decade. The object was to industrialize the nation and capitalize on its vast resources.

Over the years government expenditures have exceeded revenue, inflation has run rampant and the currency has been cheapened.

The Vargas government announces plans to reduce expenditures and end deficit financing. Imports will be restricted and the people will be called upon to do without luxuries and some necessities.

CHECKING ON CHAPLIN

CHARLIE CHAPLIN, WHO WON fame and fortune as a comedian, will be called upon to explain his political and moral doings if he attempts to return to this country from England. Although he has been in the United States for 40 years, he has never become a citizen.

Now a multi-millionaire, Chaplin has been in the public eye on numerous occasions. He has often been accused of affiliation with various subversive groups, and once was brought before a congressional committee to explain his activities. He escaped conviction on a charge of violating the Mann Act and has been involved in numerous divorce actions.

Thirty years ago Chaplin was the top box office attraction in the silent movies. With baggy trousers, a trick mustache and a rubber cane he drew millions of paying customers to the movie palaces. He was described as the world's greatest pantomimist.

Now Chaplin is appearing in a new role, devoid of any semblance of comedy.

These Days

Governor Herman Talmadge of Georgia, one of the smart men in public life, who brings to politics an unusual directness, answering many "yes" and "no" questions without hesitation the other night on the radio, in answer to a "Meet the Press" question, cited an example of what might happen to get him to vote against Stevenson.

I do not have the script before me, having little the ear-impact of what he said, which was:

"Governor Stevenson might say that he would pardon Alger Hiss and make him Secretary of State."

Of course, Herman Talmadge was spoofing, giving an exaggerated example of an extreme instance of political stupidity and national betrayal. Stevenson thus far has not indicated that he would do any such thing. Yet, the fact does stand out that for many months now plans have been in the making for the recognition of Soviet China first by the United Nations and then by the United States.

The ground has actually been laid for this sinister arrangement at the meeting of the International Red Cross in Toronto, where the device was tried of having both Soviet China and Nationalist China present. This led to catastrophe, which could have been foreseen by anyone with even half an eye on the Far Eastern situation. The embarrassment to the United States was deep and humiliating. The Communists used this meeting as a sounding board for their accusation that we engaged in germ warfare.

Despite the fact that Soviet China has never recognized Great Britain and that British merchants have been imprisoned in China and their businesses wrecked and closed down, it has been British policy to deal with Soviet China and to sell them goods whenever they could and under whatever conditions might be available.

Our own government has never quite overcome the habit of the "big lie" that Chinese Communists are not Marxists at all (although they have been that since 1920) but they are agrarian reformers (which they are only in the strict Communist sense of reform by confiscation). The Alger Hiss-Owen Lattimore-Frederick V. Field ideas are too ingrained in the thinking of some elements in the State Department. They have held them too long to turn away from them completely.

Another group in our government has hypnotized itself into believing that Mao Tse-tung might turn himself into a Chinese Tito. There never has been a basis for this but hope springs eternal in the breast of a State Department official who will not do what is right and cannot do what he would like to. Mao Tse-tung has not become a Tito or anything else that could help the State Department. He goes his merry way with Stalin.

Practically all military men from the days of Generals Wedemeyer and MacArthur have favored using Chiang Kai-shek's troops in Korea. This the State Department continues to oppose, although there have been 120,000 American casualties in the Korean War. Should Chiang's troops be used, it would be an embarrassment to the

Treating Type Of Male Cancer

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IN many types of cancer, once the growth has advanced and spread from the original site, there is little hope of stopping its ever-destructive tide. One type of cancer that does respond to treatment even though it may have spread, is cancer of the prostate gland.

The prostate is a male sex gland. When cancer of this gland occurs it is usually in men past the age of forty. The man may first have difficulty with urination, since the prostate gland presses against the tube through which the urine leaves the body.

If the cancer is discovered early enough, a permanent cure is possible through an operation in which the gland is totally removed. However, in a great number of cases, this type of cancer is not discovered until it has already spread from its original site to the bones or other organs. It usually spreads to the skull, lungs, and bones.

Large doses of female hormone have been used in treating cancer of the prostate that has spread in the body. A very effective form of this hormone is known as ethinyl estradiol.

In many of the patients treated with this hormone, their general health remained good, and the cancer did not advance from the spots where it had already spread. Many patients showed quick improvement which lasted from months to years. Urinary difficulty also eased, and the spread of the tumor became limited.

Ethinyl estradiol seems to produce little disturbance in those taking it, though it does have a tendency to swell the breasts.

A new and more potent hormone drug may thus give us a form of treatment that will succeed in advanced cancer of the prostate, where surgery would be difficult or unsuccessful.

Dr. William Huggins has also been a pioneer in showing that the removal of the male sex glands aids these patients greatly. Another form of treatment in recent years which he has found successful is removal of the adrenal glands, which are located just above the kidneys, followed by the administration of the adrenal glands hormone.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
R. A.: Is cancer contagious?
Answer: There is no evidence that cancer is contagious.

It certainly must come as a shock to that metropolis (or is it "metropolises"? as Chicago, St. Louis and Cleveland to discover they are way stations on a candidate's whistle-stop tour.

Maybe the reason candidates go in for those whistle-stop treks is that they're just keeping in tune with the times.

CHAPTER TWENTY

AUGUST was an unexpectedly cold month. Vacationists shivered on beaches, piled on extra sweaters and wished for summer cottages with central heating and thermostats.

"Nothing," Ralph Hilliard told Nance, following a week end at his shore place, "is more depressing than sand without sun. I huddled three days over a fireplace."

Nance made a clucking sound of commiseration. Her reactions to the weather, or anything else these days, was halfhearted. She was in New York permanently now, after seeing Eleanor through her breakdown following Jeremy's marriage.

In a way, Eleanor's illness had been a good thing for Nance. It kept her mind and body occupied, and when Eleanor at length was able to be up and about again as usual—though she was noticeably thinner and subdued—Nance found that she herself had recovered from the first shock. And she decided at once that she would not stay in Thurstonia, encountering the inevitable pity of her friends, and forever running into Eve and Jeremy.

Kit had insisted on Nance making her home with her.

"Apartments are still scarce," she'd reasoned. "Besides, if you are going to be in New York, I'd like you with me. So would Eleanor."

Nance agreed. Kit was kind, and it really was not sensible to live alone. Kit vigorously discouraged brooding, and already, in the pattern of days which at first had been her grim routine of eating, sleeping, working, Kit was weaving her bright threads. And Ralph, Ralph was surprisingly sensitive of her moods. Perceptive and responsive, without mollycoddling her hurt pride.

Ralph was a truly nice person, Nance thought, considering him across the table. They often came to this quiet place near the office, for tea. Ralph was from a small town in Kent, England. His voice still had a trace of the broad a's and full, round o's, and his habit for tea at four o'clock, he said, from a long line of tea-drinking ancestors.

Ralph said, refilling her cup, "I'm having the office adjoining mine made over as a studio for you, Nance. There are a couple of new books coming up. You'll get the art contracts."

"There's really no work space for me in Kit's apartment, Ralph. And I don't want to make a nuisance of myself. Kit has her own life."

"And you yours. Don't let this business throw you, Nance."

"I don't intend to," she said sturdily. "I could have let color blindness stop me from being an artist. I didn't. And I'm not going to let this business stop me."

to let this spoil my life, either. I have my work."

He nodded.

She continued, "I'm fortunate it's work I like. I can put all myself into it. It's so much more convenient being a jilted artist than a jilted stenographer, isn't it? Nine to five, with nothing but curlicues, and all those empty hours to fill! Artists are like authors—they never really stop working. Even in their sleep. I've often pushed myself awake to catch a dream, to get it on paper before I lost it."

He nodded, then frowned. "That's fine, for now. But drive yourself too hard and you'll go stale. I've seen it happen. Don't shut out your friends, Nance. Every contact is a stimulant, or a sedative. You need both." He grinned suddenly. "I'm not quite sure which category I'm in."

"Both!" She added, "You've been kind, Ralph."

"I'll be around if you need me, Nance."

She knew what he meant. Exactly. She would, just now, have preferred not knowing. Up to now, in her various encounters with Ralph Hilliard, she had sensed vaguely that he was on the verge of being in love with her. He hadn't put anything in words. Jeremy had been a barrier. Jeremy was no longer a barrier, but she wasn't ready for another love, and Ralph knew it. But he offered her his strength to lean upon, and she was grateful. She said gently, "Thank you, Ralph."

The tables around them were filling. Glancing up, Nance saw Steve Raymond and Libby Oliver in the foyer. Ralph saw them in the same instant, and lifting his brows at Nance for acquiescence, he waved them over.

"My lord," Steve said, seating Libby and pulling out a chair next to Nance. "Tea!" He ordered merrily for himself and Libby.

But Libby protested, "I think I'll have tea, Steve. You should, too. Unless you want to start the Carlsons' party with a hang-over. Tea," she said firmly to the waiter, "for both of us, please."

Steve scowled, "Mama knows best."

Libby went red. "You are drinking too much, Steve."

"All right, all right." Nance felt impatient with both of them. Especially Libby. Why, with Steve so churlish, did she tag along?

She questioned Ralph about it, on their way back to the office. They'd left Steve and Libby at the table, still bickering.

"Oh, Steve needs her, after a fashion," Ralph said. "He always has, and Libby knows it. She has more money than he has, so he's always felt safe with her. If Libby'd been on hand when Eve entered the picture, there'd have been a different story."

A recent issue of Otto Ernest Rayburn's Ozark Guide, published in Eureka Springs, Ark., contains this nugget: During World War II the U. S. Army took over an area in the Ozark foothills as a site for artillery practice. All civilians were ordered out. When the battery had been set up and the firing began, the officer in the observation tower phoned, "Cease firing! Signs of life near target. Send party to investigate."

When the detail approached the target, there emerged from the brush an old-timer with white beard down to his waistline, waving a tattered old towel. He yelled, "I don't give a darn what General Lee says. I'm surrendering!"

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

Editor's Note: Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent answers readers questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 — "I recently read a newspaper article about the use of American funds abroad which I can hardly believe," writes E. E. J. of Tulsa, Okla. "I do not remember any publicity about the question when it was before Congress for discussion. It said that the United States had signed an agreement with Israel under which this nation guarantees private American investors in industrial and agricultural developments there that they would get back their dollars. The agreement, as I understand it, provides insurance against any loss by expropriation, as well as convertibility of profits and principal into dollars. Did Congress ever approve this kind of guarantee?"

Answer: Yes. This is a provision of the Mutual Security Act for the economic and military development of nations allied with us in the Cold War with Russia. Similar guarantees have been given in several other countries in Europe. It is admittedly a risky business, especially as some of the projects we have underwritten, in Denmark and the Low Countries, lie in the path of possible Russian invasion. In that event, the factories and farms which the United States indirectly finances would fall to the enemy.

However, this consideration applies to all the billions we have spent under the Marshall Plan, as Congress recognized at the time. But the legislators concluded that it was a wise step because it is expected (1) to make friends abroad, and (2) to increase our allies' power of resistance to the Reds.

"Is it not reasonable to assume," asks F. S. S. of Ardley, N. Y., "that President Truman did not use the Taft-Hartley Act in the steel strike because, under the law, the men could have voted acceptance or rejection of the companies' best offer? Since the closed shop was the only issue holding up settlement, is it not possible that the men would have repudiated Truman and Philip Murray, if given a chance to pass on this question? That, of course, would have been disastrous from a political standpoint."

OBVIOUS—Answer: I do not presume to analyze the workings of the presidential mind. However, it is obvious that Truman did not want to employ what he calls a "slave labor law" on the eve of the campaign, although he has used it before. It might have helped to end the dispute.

Moreover, the 80-day waiting period provided in the statute would have kept the steel strike, with its threat to national defense production, as a live issue in the midst of the campaign. Truman naturally did not want that as a timely Republican argument against his labor record.

As it turned out, he and Murray arranged it so that a settlement could be announced during the Democratic national convention.

In his opinion, it makes for industrial democracy in that the workingmen themselves, not a few professional leaders at Washington, decide whether to work or not. On the other hand, it is the provision which Messrs

BRAZIL'S DILEMMA

REGARDLESS OF WHERE it is tried, when government enters business results can always be predicted in advance. England tried it with disastrous results. Now Brazil is caught in a financial situation which is causing considerable concern.

Brazil is one Latin American country which is a good friend of the United States. A third of that country's imports come from the United States, and this country buys more from Brazil than from any other nation south of the border.

Brazil is confronted by a debit on current accounts of nearly $500,000,000, which is more than the entire assets of its central bank and its reserves of gold and foreign exchange holdings. This dilemma has been brought about by the government's venture into private enterprise in the last decade. The object was to industrialize the nation and capitalize on its vast resources.

Over the years government expenditures have exceeded revenue, inflation has run rampant and the currency has been cheapened.

The Vargas government announces plans to reduce expenditures and end deficit financing. Imports will be restricted and the people will be called upon to do without luxuries and some necessities.

CHECKING ON CHAPLIN

CHARLIE CHAPLIN, WHO WON fame and fortune as a comedian, will be called upon to explain his political and moral diodes if he attempts to return to this country from England. Although he has been in the United States for 40 years, he has never become a citizen.

Now a multi-millionaire, Chaplin has been in the public eye on numerous occasions. He has often been accused of affiliation with various subversive groups, and once was brought before a congressional committee to explain his activities. He escaped conviction on a charge of violating the Mann Act and has been involved in numerous divorce actions.

Thirty years ago Chaplin was the top box office attraction in the silent movies. With baggy trousers, a trick mustache and a rubber cane he drew millions of paying customers to the movie palaces. He was described as the world's greatest pantomimist.

Now Chaplin is appearing in a new role, devoid of any semblance of comedy.

These Days

Governor Herman Talmadge of Georgia, one of the smart men in public life, who brings to politics an unusual directness, answering many "yes" and "no" questions without hesitation the other night on the radio, in answer to a "Meet the Press" question, cited an example of what might happen to get him to vote against Stevenson.

I do not have the script before me, having only the ear-impact of what he said, which was:

"Governor Stevenson might say that he would pardon Alger Hiss and make him Secretary of State."

Of course, Herman Talmadge was spoofing, giving an exaggerated example of an extreme instance of political stupidity and national betrayal. Stevenson thus far has not indicated that he would do any such thing. Yet, the fact does stand out that for many months now plans have been in the making for the recognition of Soviet China first by the United Nations and then by the United States.

The ground has actually been laid for this sinister arrangement at the meeting of the International Red Cross in Toronto, where the device was tried of having both Soviet China and Nationalist China present. This led to catastrophe, which could have been foreseen by anyone with even half an eye on the Far Eastern situation. The embarrassment to the United States was deep and humiliating. The Communists used this meeting as a sounding board for their accusation that we engaged in germ warfare.

Despite the fact that Soviet China has never recognized Great Britain and that British merchants have been imprisoned in China and their businesses wrecked and closed down, it has been British policy to deal with Soviet China and to sell them goods whenever they could and under whatever conditions might be available.

Our own government has never quite overcome the habit of the "big lie" that Chinese Communists are not Marxists at all (although they have been that since 1920) but they are agrarian reformers (which they are only in the strict Communist sense of reform by confiscation). The Alger Hiss-Owen Lattimore-Frederick V. Field ideas are too ingrained in the thinking of some elements in the State Department. They have held them too long to turn away from them completely.

Another group in our government has hypnotized itself into believing that Mao Tze-tung might turn himself into a Chinese Tito. There never has been a basis for this but hope springs eternal in the breast of a State Department official who will not do what is right and cannot do what he would like to. Mao Tze-tung has not become a Tito or anything else that could help the State Department. He goes his merry way with Stalin.

Practically all military men from the days of Generals Wedemeyer and MacArthur have favored using Chiang Kai-shek's troops in Korea. This the State Department continues to oppose, although there have been 120,000 American casualties in the Korean War. Should Chiang's troops be used, it would be an embarrassment to the

DIET AND HEALTH

Treating Type Of Male Cancer

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IN many types of cancer, once the growth has advanced and spread from the original site, there is little hope of stopping its ever-destructive tide. One type of cancer that does respond to treatment even though it may have spread, is cancer of the prostate gland.

The prostate is a male sex gland. When cancer of this gland occurs it is usually in men past the age of forty. The man may first have difficulty with urination, since the prostate gland presses against the tube through which the urine leaves the body.

If the cancer is discovered early enough, a permanent cure is possible through an operation in which the gland is totally removed. However, in a great number of cases, this type of cancer is not discovered until it has already spread from its original site to the bones or other organs. It usually spreads to the skull, lungs, and bones.

Large doses of female hormone have been used in treating cancer of the prostate that has spread in the body. A very effective form of this hormone is known as ethinyl estradiol.

In many of the patients treated with this hormone, their general health remained good, and the cancer did not advance from the spots where it had already spread. Many patients showed quick improvement which lasted from months to years. Urinary difficulty also eased, and the spread of the tumor became limited.

Ethinyl estradiol seems to produce little disturbance in those taking it, though it does have a tendency to swell the breasts.

A new and more potent hormone drug may thus give us a form of treatment that will succeed in advanced cancer of the prostate, where surgery would be difficult or unsuccessful.

Dr. William Huggins has also been a pioneer in showing that the removal of the male sex glands aids these patients greatly. Another form of treatment in recent years which he has found successful is removal of the adrenal glands, which are located just above the kidneys, followed by the administration of the adrenal glands hormone.

It certainly must come as a shock to such metropol (or is it "metropolises"?), as Chicago, St. Louis and Cleveland to discover they are way stations on a candidate's whistle-stop tour.

Maybe the reason candidates go in for those whistle-stop treks is that they're just keeping in tune with the times.

In the old days the front-porch campaign was the fad. It may not have been very modern but it sure was more comfortable.

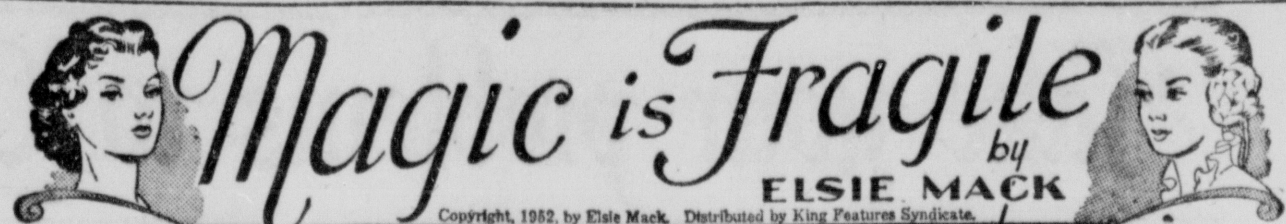

Zadok Dunkopf wonders if the reason that hol- in the sole of Presidential Candidate Stevenson's shoe got so much publicity was because the Demos wanted to show their boy had really gotten down to earth.

Fred Allen speaking: "When a woman calls down 'I'll be ready in a minute,' there's only one thing you can be sure of: she speaks English."

A recent issue of Otto Ernest Rayburn's Ozark Guide, published in Eureka Springs, Ark., contains this nugget: During World War II the U. S. Army took over an area in the Ozark foothills as a site for artillery practice. All civilians were ordered out. When the battery had been set up and the firing began, the officer in the observation tower phoned, "Cease firing! Signs of life near target. Send party to investigate."

When the detail approached the target, there emerged from the brush an old-timer with white beard down to his waistline, waving a tattered old towel. He yelled, "I don't give a darn what General Lee says. I'm surrendering!"

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

Editor's Note: Every Saturday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent answers readers questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 — "I recently read a newspaper article about the use of American funds abroad which I can hardly believe," writes E. E. J. of Tulsa, Okla. "I do not remember any publicity about the question when it was before Congress for discussion. It said that the United States had signed an agreement with Israel under which this nation guarantees private American investors in industrial and agricultural developments there that they would get back their dollars. The agreement, as I understand it, provides insurance against any loss by expropriation, as well as convertibility of profits and principal into dollars. Did Congress ever approve this kind of guarantee?"

Answer: Yes. This is a provision of the Mutual Security Act for the economic and military development of nations allied with us in the Cold War with Russia. Similar guarantees have been given in several other countries in Europe. It is admittedly a risky business, especially as some of the projects we have underwritten, in Denmark and the Low Countries, lie in the path of possible Russian invasion. In that event, the factories and farms which the United States indirectly finances would fall to the enemy. However, this consideration applies to all the billions we have spent under the Marshall Plan, as Congress recognized at the time. But the legislators concluded that it was a wise step because it is expected (1) to make friends abroad, and (2) to increase our allies' power of resistance to the Reds. "Is it not reasonable to assume," asks F. S. S. of Ardley, N. Y., "that President Truman did not use the Taft-Hartley Act in the steel strike because, under the law, the men could have voted acceptance or rejection of the companies' best offer? Since the closed shop was the only issue holding up settlement, is it not possible that the men would have repudiated Truman and Philip Murray, if given a chance to pass on this question? That, of course, would have been disastrous from a political standpoint."

OBVIOUS—Answer: I do not presume to analyze the workings of the presidential mind. However, it is obvious that Truman did not want to employ what he calls a "slave labor law" on the eve of the campaign, although he

Elinor Williams' Teen Tips

Going back to school is a fine time to make some plans for new friends, fun and success in your school work. Then don't just keep those plans on file in your busy little brain—carry them out, even if it has to be done gradually, a little at a time.

1. Put school work first. After all, that's what you're there for. Resolve to do your studying thoroughly every day, so it won't get ahead of you. Consider it a path leading to your future job or profession and see which subject you understand best and which interests you most—with an eye on future career possibilities.

2. Be well-balanced. Besides studies, take an interest in clubs, sports and social doings—as well as home duties—without going overboard on any of them. Learn to plan your time to include some of all of them. You can if you try.

3. Clothes and convertibles aren't everything. It's your personality that counts most in worthwhile things. Be friendly. Be nice to everybody, not just the letter-sweater boys.

4. Keep healthy. Health is the basis of good looks, pep and a pleasant personality. This means nine hours' sleep on school nights, milk and sensible food in regular meals.

5. Be willing to help as well as to "run" things. Leaders are fine, but everybody can't be one all the time.

World Series Foes To Get Lengthy Rest

Yanks Clinch Pennant In AL, Await Tests Starting Wednesday

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(AP)—World Series foes, for the first time in five years, will be well rested when the 1952 classic opens in Brooklyn next Wednesday.

The New York Yankees made that certain Friday night when they defeated the Philadelphia Athletics 5-2 in 11 innings to clinch their fourth straight American League flag and their 19th in 32 years.

The Dodgers have been taking things easy since Tuesday when they nailed down the National League pennant.

Not since 1947 when the Yankees and Dodgers breezed home have pennant races in both leagues been decided before the final ball.

Last year the Dodgers and New York Giants wound up the regular season tied for top honors and the miracle Giants went on to cop a best out of three playoff series to win the pennant. In 1950 Philadelphia clinched the National League pennant on the final day of the season.

IN 1949 BOTH the Yankees and Dodgers won their pennants on the final day of the season. In 1948 Cleveland captured the American League pennant by beating Boston in a one game "sudden death" playoff for the title.

The Yankees tied a rare record in bagging their fourth straight championship. Only other teams to ships were John McGraw's Giants of 1921-24 and Joe McCarthy's Yankees of 1936-1939.

Billy Martin was the man of the hour for the Yankees. The scrappy infielder singled with the bases loaded and two out in the 11th to break a 2-2 tie that enabled the Yankees to take the marbles.

The triumph gave the Yanks a three-game lead over the runner-up Indians and made it impossible for the Tribe to overhaul the Bombers as both teams have only two games left to play.

In the only other American League games, rookie Hershel Freeman pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 3-1 victory over Washington, and Saul Rogovin hurled the Chicago White Sox to a 6-2, two-hit triumph over St. Louis.

Record Shows Yanks Champs Because They Win 'Big Ones'

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The New York Yankees, who are at their best under pressure, are boasting their fourth straight American League pennant and 19th in history—because, as in the past, they won the "big" games.

This, more than anything else, brought Casey Stengel his fourth flag in as many years as Yankee skipper. But it wasn't easy.

They had to do it with a pitching staff weakened by the loss of 20-game winner Ed Lopat for a month and a half.

They had to do it without second baseman Jerry Coleman, first baseman Bobby Brown and pitcher Tom Morgan—all called to the service during the season.

And they had to do it the hard way—by winning on the road.

The key game, the one which gave the Yankees the upper hand for good, took place in Cleveland on Sunday, Sept. 14.

THE YANKS moved into Cleveland a game and a half ahead of the Indians, who needed to win this one game about as badly as any team ever needed to win one game. They had their 20-game ace, Mike Garcia, ready and waiting.

This was the game that was going to make or break Cleveland's pennant chances—and, as it turned out, it broke the Indians.

Playing alert baseball, the Yanks knocked Garcia after three innings and went on to win, 7-1, and moved 2½ games ahead of the Tribe.

Stunned, Cleveland made a gallant effort to overhaul the Yanks. They started their three 20-game winners—Garcia, Early Wynn and Bob Lemon—in every game, but the Yanks refused to crack.

They stayed a few steps ahead of the anxious, hopeful Indians.

Perhaps the most valuable Yankee of them all was Allie Reynolds, the part-Indian right-hander. He completed his first 15 starts, and entering the last three days of the season had pitched in 31 games, working 224 innings. He had four shutouts and his earned run average, 2.79, was the best in the league. Furthermore, he was used in relief six times and bailed the Yanks out of many tight spots.

IN 1949 BOTH the Yankees and Dodgers won their pennants on the final day of the season. In 1948 Cleveland captured the American League pennant by beating Boston in a one game "sudden death" playoff for the title.

The Yankees tied a rare record in bagging their fourth straight championship. Only other teams to ships were John McGraw's Giants of 1921-24 and Joe McCarthy's Yankees of 1936-1939.

Billy Martin was the man of the hour for the Yankees. The scrappy infielder singled with the bases loaded and two out in the 11th to break a 2-2 tie that enabled the Yankees to take the marbles.

The triumph gave the Yanks a three-game lead over the runner-up Indians and made it impossible for the Tribe to overhaul the Bombers as both teams have only two games left to play.

In the only other American League games, rookie Hershel Freeman pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 3-1 victory over Washington, and Saul Rogovin hurled the Chicago White Sox to a 6-2, two-hit triumph over St. Louis.

THE DODGERS tuned up for the series by beating the Boston Braves, 8-4. The Brooks used most of their scrubs but the lone regular who played the entire game, Billy Cox, had a big hand in the victory.

He knocked in three runs.

In other National League games, the Giants trounced Philadelphia, 8-0, Cincinnati downed Pittsburgh 5-0, and St. Louis swamped Chicago, 10-3.

3 Circleville Team Shooters On League Squad

Three members of Circleville's team in Central Ohio Rifle League competition are to compete Oct. 5 in an Ohio inter-league championship match in Camp Perry.

The three Circleville team members named to the 10-man CORL team, are A. C. Noecker, Fred Eakins and Clark Evans.

Circleville ranked third among the league teams this summer in outdoor matches, posting a season total of 18,983. Zanesville was first with 19,044, while Chillicothe was second with 18,025.

Eakins, who placed only 38 shots outside the bullseye during the Summer firing, earned third place in aggregate total in league standings.

The Circleville team shooter posted an aggregate total of 4,762 for the season, ranking behind C. H. Huffman of Greenfield (4,783) and Sam Day of Washington C. H. (4,763).

First indoor league match of the Fall will be held Nov. 16 in Columbus.

Bud Podbielan Hurls Shutout

CINCINNATI, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Cincinnati's strong right-hander, Bud Podbielan, waited until almost the last day of the season before chalking up his first shutout as a Red.

The former Brooklyn hand showed himself in fine fettle Friday night as he chucked the Reds to a 5-0 whitewash over the staggering Pittsburgh Pirates.

Podbielan pitched one-hit ball until the final two innings, when the Bucs tagged him for three singles.

Shaveless Tribe Fan Studies Fate

CLEVELAND, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Probably the Cleveland Indians' most loyal fan—or at least he used to be—is pondering his fate in nearby Eastlake.

He is Lloyd Culp, 40-year-old tavern owner who bet a friend $400 back in May, 1951, he would not shave until the Indians won a pennant. Now the beard is 10 inches long and he has no alternative but to shave it off and lose $400 or wait and see if the Tribe comes through next year.

Walnut Trips Ashville, 52-16; Deers Edge Wildcats By 30-6

Walnut Tiger gridders Friday afternoon scored an upset over previously unbeaten Ashville Bronco footballers in a lopsided 52-16 contest.

The victory gave the Tigers a record of two league wins in as many starts in county six-man football play and a season record of two wins in three starts.

Ashville's loss was its first in three starts in county league play to date.

In another county loop skirmish, Williamsport's Deers scored a comfortable 30-6 victory over Jackson's Wildcats, first win of the season for the Williamsporters. The defeat was the second in a row for the Wildcats.

In the Walnut-Ashville battle, the Tigers held the Broncos scoreless in three quarters of the contest. During that off-quarter, however, Ashville scored twice while leaving the Tigers scoreless.

WALNUT POSTED 20 points in the opening stanza of the contest, added 12 in the second frame and ended scoring with another 20 points in the fourth.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Ohio is going to try its hand at raising wild turkeys.

World Series
Foes To Get
Lengthy Rest

Yanks Clinch Pennant
In AL, Await Tests
Starting Wednesday

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(AP)—World Series foes, for the first time in five years, will be well rested when the 1952 classic opens in Brooklyn next Wednesday.

The New York Yankees made that certain Friday night when they defeated the Philadelphia Athletics 5-2 in 11 innings to clinch their fourth straight American League flag and their 19th in 32 years.

The Dodgers have been taking things easy since Tuesday when they nailed down the National League pennant.

Not since 1947 when the Yanks and Dodgers breezed home have pennant races in both leagues been decided before the final bell.

Last year the Dodgers and New York Giants wound up the regular season tied for top honors and the miracle Giants went on to cop a best out of three playoff series to win the pennant. In 1950 Philadelphia clinched the National League pennant on the final day of the season.

IN 1949 BOTH the Yanks and Dodgers won their pennants on the final day of the season. In 1948 Cleveland captured the American League pennant by beating Boston in a one game "sudden death" playoff for the title.

The Yanks tied a rare record in bagging their fourth straight championship. Only other teams to ships were John McGraw's Giants of 1921-24 and Joe McCarthy's Yanks of 1936-1939.

Billy Martin was the man of the hour for the Yanks. The scrappy infielder singled with the bases loaded and two out in the 11th to break a 2-2 tie that enabled the Yanks to take the marbles.

The triumph gave the Yanks a three-game lead over the runner-up Indians and made it impossible for the Tribe to overhaul the Bombers as both teams have only two games left to play.

In the only other American League games, rookie Hershel Freeman pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 3-1 victory over Washington and Saul Rogovin hurled the

Record Shows Yanks Champs
Because They Win 'Big Ones'

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The New York Yankees, who are at their best under pressure, are boasting their fourth straight American League pennant and 19th in history—because, as in the past, they won the "big" games.

This, more than anything else, brought Casey Stengel his fourth flag in as many years as Yankee skipper. But it wasn't easy.

They had to do it with a pitching staff weakened by the loss of 20-game winner Ed Lopat for a month and a half.

They had to do it without second baseman Jerry Coleman, third baseman Bobby Brown and pitcher Tom Morgan—all called to the service during the season.

And they had to do it the hard way—by winning on the road.

The key game, the one which gave the Yankees the upper hand for good, took place in Cleveland on Sunday, Sept. 14.

THE YANKS moved into Cleveland a game and a half ahead of the Indians, who needed to win this one game about as badly as any team ever needed to win one game. They had their 20-game ace, Mike Garcia, ready and waiting.

This was the game that was going to make or break Cleveland's pennant chances—and, as it turned out, it broke the Indians.

Playing alert baseball, the Yanks knocked Garcia after three innings and went on to win, 7-1, and moved 2½ games ahead of the Tribe.

Stunned, Cleveland made a gallant effort to overhaul the Yanks. They started their three 20-game winners—Garcia, Early Wynn and Bob Lemon—in every game, but the Yanks refused to crack.

They stayed a few steps ahead of the anxious, hopeful Indians.

Perhaps the most valuable Yankee of them all was Allie Reynolds, the part-Indian righthander. He completed his first 15 starts, and entering the last three days of the season had pitched in 31 games, working 224 innings. He had four shutouts and his earned run average, 2.79, was the best in the league. Furthermore, he was used in relief six times and bailed the Yanks out of many tight spots.

THE CINCINNATI Reds, who were in the lead, were hit hard by the Yankees in the first game of the season. They lost 7-1, and moved 2½ games behind the Yanks.

They had to do it with a pitching staff weakened by the loss of 20-game winner Ed Lopat for a month and a half.

DETROIT, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Their pennant hopes just a bitter memory, Cleveland's Indians meet the Detroit Tigers Saturday in the first of two games that will conclude their season.

Al Lopez, the Tribe's manager, sent a congratulatory telegram to Casey Stengel after the New York Yankees defeated Philadelphia Friday night and won the American League pennant. Tribe General Manager Hank Greenberg also was in Detroit, hopeful of swinging a trade with the Tigers that would strengthen some of the Indians' weak spots.

CHICAGO White Sox to a 6-2, two-hit triumph over St. Louis.

THE DODGERS tuned up for the series by beating the Boston Braves, 8-4. The Brooks used most of their scrubs but the lone regular who played the entire game, Billy Cox, had a big hand in the victory. He knocked in three runs.

In other National League games, the Giants trounced Philadelphia, 8-0, Cincinnati downed Pittsburgh 5-0, and St. Louis swamped Chicago, 10-3.

3 Circleville
Team Shooters
On League Squad

Three members of Circleville's team in Central Ohio Rifle League competition are to compete Oct. 5 in an Ohio inter-league championship match in Camp Perry.

The three Circleville team members named to the 10-man CORL team, are A. C. Noecker, Fred Eakins and Clark Evans.

Circleville ranked third among the league teams this summer in outdoor matches, posting a season total of 18,983. Zanesville was first with 19,044, while Chillicothe was second with 19,025.

Eakins, who placed only 38 shots outside the bullseye during the Summer firing, earned third place in aggregate total in league standings.

The Circleville team shooter posted an aggregate total of 4,762 for the season, ranking behind C. H. Huffman of Greenfield (4,783) and Sam Day of Washington C. H. (4,763).

First indoor league match of the Fall will be held Nov. 16 in Columbus.

Bud Poddibian
Hurls Shutout

CINCINNATI, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Cincinnati's strong right-hander, Bud Poddibian, waited until almost the last day of the season before chalking up his first shutout as a Red.

The former Brooklyn hand showed himself in fine fettle Friday night as he chucked the Reds to a 5-0 whitewashing over the staggering Pittsburgh Pirates.

Poddibian pitched one-hit ball until the final two innings, when the Bucs tagged him for three singles.

Shaveless Tribe

CLEVELAND, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Probably the Cleveland Indians' most loyal fan—or at least he used to be—is pondering his fate in nearby Eastlake.

He is Lloyd Culp, 40-year-old tavern owner who bet a friend $400 back in May, 1951, he would not shave until the Indians won a pennant. Now the beard is 10 inches long and he has no alternative but to shave it off and lose $400 or wait and see if the Tribe comes through next year.

Motorcade Of Protest Sought To Air Telephone Gripes

City Attorney Seeks Caravan To Hearings

Rural Subscribers Asked To Join In Protest

Pickaway County residents Saturday weighed the possibility of a caravan of protest to Columbus to aid in the fight against a rate increase sought by Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co.

A hearing before the Ohio Public Utilities commission will open Monday on the rate request, and Circleville area subscribers have been promised a full opportunity to air their complaints.

Circleville and 17 other communities, in a group action, are opposing the company's move.

Original plans to send a small group to Columbus to represent the community may now be expanded to the formation of a motorcade to include as many automobiles as possible.

Local leaders in opposition to the rate hike are attempting to enlist car owners who are willing to provide transportation for all those willing to go.

THE DATE and hours set aside by the commission for Circleville complaints have not yet been determined, but may be announced early next week. It was believed the city's turn to speak at the hearing may come on Wednesday or Thursday, but a decision on this point has yet to be made by the utilities group.

Under such an arrangement, leaders in the rate fight point out, those who wish to attend the hearing could do so with minimum time lost from their business or daily routine here.

While most of the cars would probably travel to Columbus on their own schedules, district representatives would be together when "Circleville time" came at the hearing.

Richard Penn, Circleville attorney, is representing the community in the rate case and attempting to coordinate the caravan of protest here. Car owners are being asked to volunteer the use of their automobiles and to help fill them with complainants who lack transportation.

Penn's home phone number is 988-L. His office number is 241. He is especially anxious at this time to hear from rural phone subscribers and those in neighboring communities.

ED WALLACE, Pickaway County representative, has stressed the need for fast response by anyone wishing to participate in the protest at Columbus.

In addition to the main battle on the rate increase opening Monday, Circleville has indirectly been promised a separate hearing on the phone company's service here whenever public interest warrants the meeting.

However, the service hearing can be held at any time, Penn explained, and at present should be considered secondary to the fight on the rate increase now set to start.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27—Everyone in the campaign is hoping mad, but the one probably angriest of all is the one who hasn't said much lately but will soon: President Truman.

This is his chance to blow the Republicans out of their britches, if he can. He starts his whistle-stop tour this weekend. And he isn't giving out any previews.

Reporters at his weekly news conference Thursday tried to find out what he is going to talk about but he told them they'd have to wait and see.

He has from now until election day, about five weeks, to repay the Republicans for the blame and ridicule they've heaped on him and his administration not only in the campaign but for seven years.

He has more at stake in the election than just the victory of Gov. Stevenson and the Democratic ticket. His speeches to the voters will also be an appeal for vindication of his presidency.

TRUMAN HAS expressed admiration for Gen. Eisenhower, but that was in the days before the campaign began, before he had a chance to see or hear the kind of campaign the general would make.

Perhaps because he's been in politics so long himself Truman wasn't shocked when Eisenhower began pouring scorn on the Truman administration and talking about getting rid of the "crooks" and "robbers."

But now the general has made a political career of denouncing the administration in attacks which have increased with such intensity that Eisenhower is outdoing Sen. Taft in that department.

Truman has kept more or less mum on the subject of Eisenhower since the general began these tactics. He's probably pretty mad inside, particularly with Eisenhower's criticism of the administration's foreign policy.

When Eisenhower was chief of staff after the war he certainly was in a position to know something about the shaping of that policy, even though he may have had nothing to do with the shaping.

But if Eisenhower did have a hand in making some of the policy which he is now criticizing, no one is in a better position to know it than Truman.

There has been speculation here, but not officially, that if Truman is mad enough he may declassify government documents to show what part some of the Republicans most active in this campaign played in foreign policy.

Gov. Stevenson, who hasn't been around Washington to contend with the Republicans throughout these past seven years, has been devoting most of his time to talking about the issues and his own ideas as they would affect the future.

But raking over the past was made to order for Truman who has had to live with the Republicans. In this campaign he can make that his specialty. He has a knack for it, as he demonstrated in 1948.

In 2153: Man Or Woman With Hair Will Be Vulgar, Out Of Fashion

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—Ladies, never smirk at a bald man. He'll have the last laugh yet. For women are slowly going bald themselves.

"There is an evolutionary tendency in the human race to grow less hair—women as well as men," says Dr. Howard T. Behrman, one of the nation's leading dermatologists.

"In 200 years—perhaps more—it may be high fashion among both sexes to have no head hair."

As a man who every year looks more like the cue ball in a billiard game, I can hardly wait. It is tough being a pioneer.

Dr. Behrman, author of a 500-page medical textbook on the scalp, has a fine cranial roof thatch himself but is all in favor of the hairless trend.

"Hair is only a vestigial ornament that no longer serves a real purpose," he observed. "It used to have a protective function. But once we moved out of the trees we no longer needed it."

"The eventual human being, man and woman, will have no hair, a longer head, large abdomen, and short arms and legs."

"It's what you'd expect as a man becomes more of an indoor thinking animal, sitting on his rear more and spending more time pushing buttons."

The increasing baldness among women he sees as a long-time evolutionary change possible aggravated by lack of proper hair care.

"They don't brush it as vigorously, or wash it as frequently as they did in the old days."

"Now they dye it, set it, wave it, bleach it—and let it fall into a set pattern. They are afraid to disturb it until their next trip to the beauty parlor."

"Women who have a tendency to baldness often find it is increased after childbirth, because of a temporary lack of female hormones. Treatment with female hormones may bring back the hair, but not necessarily so."

Those dratted sex hormones seem to hold the key to the whole problem. Female hormones grow scalp hair, hinder body hair. Male hormones work just the opposite. They are responsible for the growth of body hair and the loss of head hair, which may explain why so many bald men are sued in divorce court as wandering boudoir Tarzans.

"If you give any woman enough male hormones she will grow a beard and begin to lose scalp hair," said Dr. Behrman. "And by giving a man enough female hormones you might save his hair but he would no longer be the kind of a man a woman would want around the house. He might lose interest in baseball and take up knitting."

What can a balding man do? Dr. Behrman, who is a member of the American Medical Association's Committee on Cosmetics, said that commercial lotions and creams are all right for hair grooming but added flatly: "They won't stimulate the growth of hair."

"In the vast majority of cases in which there is no local scalp or internal disease there is very little hope of saving the hair."

His solution for normal male baldness, which is a product of heredity, growing older, and hormone secretions, is:

"Philosophy. The hairless human is on the way, but—"

But meanwhile we pioneers of the future will have to suffer in silence until we finally get that last laugh.

Cattle-Sheep Guard Plans Now Ready

Pickaway County extension office Friday announced it has plans available for farmers for a new type cattle and sheep guard.

The new type guard will serve the purpose of a gate in keeping livestock from the highway and also as a division between fields.

At the same time, machinery and equipment can be moved across it without having to stop and bother with a gate.

Crushed pineapple, sugar syrup, and mint flavoring make a delicious sauce for vanilla ice cream. Tint the sauce a pale green with a little food coloring if you like.

Persons receiving old-age and survivor's insurance benefits here can now earn as much as $75 a month without losing their benefits according to C. C. Darby, manager of the Social Security Administration.

Darby pointed out this "work clause" applies not only to the retired worker but also to a wife, widow, child or parent who is receiving benefits based on the social security account of a retired or deceased worker.

Any beneficiary working for wages should notify the Social Security Administration promptly if he earns over $75 in one month. A self-employed beneficiary should notify the office as soon as he sees that his net earnings are likely to average more than $75 a month for the taxable year.

It's called the Edwardian look, and it consists of a fitted, high-buttoned coat with cuffs on the sleeves and no cuffs on the trousers. Daring Brummels do it up brown with a broadcated waistcoat.

This thing was bound to come, after the so-called casual look reached such proportions right after World War II that—say the girls—you couldn't tell whether a man was wearing a business suit or his pajamas.

Men have been edging cautiously toward a slightly less rumpled mode of dress for the last two years, since tailors started taking some of the padding out of shoulders and modifying lapels.

But any move to change men's habits of dressing is in for rough going before the boys can be persuaded to try something different. Witness a survey just completed by the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers.

A POLL OF THE association's more than 2,000 store members revealed that 70 per cent felt American men would have no truck with the Edwardian look. Others thought the trend would not develop until "sometime in the distant future."

Be that as it may, the Daily News Record reports this week that Edwardian-style men's suits "with narrow lapels, cuffs on the

Motorcade Of Protest Sought To Air Telephone Gripes

City Attorney Seeks Caravan To Hearings

Rural Subscribers Asked To Join In Protest

Pickaway County residents Saturday weighed the possibility of a caravan of protest to Columbus to aid in the fight against a rate increase sought by Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co.

A hearing before the Ohio Public Utilities commission will open Monday on the rate request, and Circleville area subscribers have been promised a full opportunity to air their complaints.

Circleville and 17 other communities, in a group action, are opposing the company's move.

Original plans to send a small group to Columbus to represent the community may now be expanded to the formation of a motorcade to include as many automobiles as possible.

Local leaders in opposition to the rate hike are attempting to enlist car owners who are willing to provide transportation for all those willing to go.

THE DATE and hours set aside by the commission for Circleville complaints have not yet been determined, but may be announced early next week. It was believed the city's turn to speak at the hearing may come on Wednesday or Thursday, but a decision on this point has yet to be made by the utilities group.

Under such an arrangement, leaders in the rate fight point out, those who wish to attend the hearing could do so with minimum time lost from their business or daily routine here.

While most of the cars would probably travel to Columbus on their own schedules, district representatives would be together when "Circleville time" came at the hearing.

Richard Penn, Circleville attorney, is representing the community in the rate case and attempting to coordinate the caravan of protest here. Car owners are being asked to volunteer the use of their automobiles and to help fill them with complainants who lack transportation.

Penn's home phone number is 988-L. His office number is 241.

He is especially anxious at this time to hear from rural phone subscribers and those in neighboring communities.

ED WALLACE, Pickaway County representative, has stressed the need for fast response by anyone wishing to participate in the protest at Columbus.

In addition to the main battle on the rate increase opening Monday, Circleville has indirectly been promised a separate hearing on the phone company's service here whenever public interest warrants the meeting.

However, the service hearing can be held at any time, Penn explained, and at present should be considered secondary to the fight on the rate increase now set to start.

"Hair is only a vestigial ornament that no longer serves a real purpose," he observed. "It used to have a protective function. But once we moved out of the trees we no longer needed it."

"The eventual human being, man and woman, will have no hair, a longer head, large abdomen, and short arms and legs."

"It's what you'd expect as a man becomes more of an indoor thinking animal, sitting on his rear more and spending more time pushing buttons."

The increasing baldness among women he sees as a long-time evolutionary change possible aggravated by lack of proper hair care.

"They don't brush it as vigorously, or wash it as frequently as they did in the old days."

"Now they dye it, set it, wave it, bleach it—and let it fall into a set pattern. They are afraid to disturb it until their next trip to the beauty parlor."

"Women who have a tendency to baldness often find it is increased after childbirth, because of a temporary lack of female hormones. Treatment with female hormones may bring back the hair, but not necessarily so."

Those dratted sex hormones seem to hold the key to the whole problem. Female hormones grow scalp hair, hinder body hair. Male hormones work just the opposite. They are responsible for the growth of body hair and the loss of head hair, which may explain why so many bald men are sued in divorce court as wandering boudoir Tarzans.
